Helping Family Offices Grow

Working in a Family Office can provide a rewarding career and a fulfilling life, but it's not without challenge and responsibility – and it certainly isn't suited to everyone.

Family Offices are as culturally diverse as the families themselves and finding people that are a natural fit is critical for creating long-lasting and mutually beneficial relationships.

Agreus is a powerful network of experienced resourcing and recruitment professionals. We're committed to helping Family Offices plan for growth – finding the right people and making the most of existing resources.

Resource Planning

Despite similarities to the corporate world, Family Offices don't tend to follow typical corporate structures – in such small teams, people are often expected to do more than their job title would suggest.

Whether starting from scratch or preparing to grow, Agreus can help you understand how best to structure your Family Office to achieve your objectives – aligning your team's capabilities with your expectations.

We'll help you define roles and responsibilities, identify resource gaps, plan phased expansion, make the most of the team you have – creating a long-term plan while overcoming short-term challenges.

Recruitment

A career in a Family Office is very attractive, but not everyone is as suited to it as they might believe. It's difficult to find the ideal candidate and a bad-hire can be disruptive, costly and time-consuming.

Our sourcing and selection process identifies candidates with the appropriate skills and experience, but we also work hard to find capable people that are an ideal cultural fit – improving the chances of someone slotting into your existing team and the likelihood of long-term commitment.

“Our requirements were very specific, borderline unusual. Agreus immediately understood our needs and provided a tailored service. Very few business experiences are as satisfying as interacting with Agreus.”

Interim Management

Family Offices tend to be very lean, which can put people under immense pressure when required to provide cover – particularly around holiday seasons or during absence for unforeseeable health reasons.

We can help your business continue to operate without upsetting the equilibrium. Utilising our network, we can source someone of the highest calibre to provide temporary cover for even your most senior roles.

And, being lean, there's often a requirement for Family Offices to complete ad-hoc tasks that don't fall within the day-to-day scope or existing capability.

We can also find the most suitable individuals to complete tasks as an outsourced function.

Human Resources

Family Offices are often not large enough to require a dedicated Human Resources Manager, but good HR is a necessary function for maintaining and retaining a top performing team.

Agreus provide HR as a service. Whether you need everyday operational advice, or guidance on employment law and how to handle the most sensitive situations, our team of HR Managers and HR Legal Advisors will be able to help.

“Agreus, took the time to understand the culture of our Family Office and helped us recruit candidates that would work well with the principals and team.”
